But we'll ne'er stray for faute o' light, S. Gane is the day't
A burnin' an' a shinin' light, . . . Holy Willie's Prayer. 2.
More sweet than the light to my eye. S. My Love's a winsome't
But gleg as light are lovers' een, . . . S. O this is no my ain't
Till fley'd awa' by Phœbus' light. . . . S. O were my love't
Fair beaming, and streaming,
Her silver light the boughs amang ; . . . S. Sae flaxen't
When skirlin weanies see the light, . . . Scotch Drink. 12.
In pride of beauty's light ; . . . S. Sleep'st thou, or wak'st't
She ventured forward on the light ; . . . Tam o' Shanter. 11.
Each in its cauld hand held a light. . . . 1b.
Presided o'er the Sons of light : The Farewell. To St. J's L..
The rising sun, our Galston Muirs,
    Wi' glorious light was glintan ; . . . The Holy Fair.
Beneath the moon's unclouded light,
    I held awa' to Amie ; . . . S. The Rig's o' Barley.
Deep lights and shades, bold-mingling, threw
    A lustre grand ; . . . The Vision. D. I. 12.
'But yet the light that led astray,
    'Was light from Heaven. . . . 1b. D. II. 17.
And, like a passing thought, she fled,
    In light away. . . . 1b. 23.
Though Fate said, a hero should perish in light ;
    The Whistle. 16.
And dear to my heart as the light to my e'e,
    S. There's auld Rob M. 't
Beneath what light she has remaining,
    Let's sing our sang. . . . To J. S., 20.
Never baleful stellar lights,
Taint thee with untimely blights ! . . . To Miss C.
And hear him curse the life he first surveyed,
    To R. G. of F..
Thou orb of day ! thou other paler light ! To R. Graham
Whether the summer kindly warms,
    Wi' life and light, . . . To W. Simpson.
To light and joy the good restore,
    To light and joy unknown before. Wr. in Friars Carse H..
For dear to me as light and life
Was my sweet Highland Mary.
    S. Ye banks and braes and streams't

Light, to.

O! soon, to me, may summer-suns
Nae mair light up the morn! Lament of Mary of Scots.
When Cynthia lights wi' silver ray,
The weary shearer's hameward way, Lassie wi' the lintwhite
Me, no cheerful twinkle lights me; . . . S. One fond kiss
We'll light a spunk; and, ev'ry skin,
We'll rin them aff in fusion Like oil, some day.

The Ordination. 14.

Light, to [alight].

I'll light now, and dight now,
His sweaty wizen'd hide; . . . Ep. to Davie. 11.
If in your bounds ye chance to light
Upon a fine fat fodelg wight, On Grosé's Peregrinations.
She'll gie ye a beck, and bid ye light, The Tarbolton Lassies.

The lightnings flash from pole to pole; Tam o' Shanter. 10.
When lightnings fire the stormy lift,
The Election Ballads. V. I.

Lightsome.

Come let us spend the lightsome days
In the birks of Aberfeldy; . . . S. Bonnie Lassie, will ye go
When I think on the lightsome days
I spent wi' thee, my dearie; S. How lang and dreary
Wi' lightsome heart I pu'd a rose,
S. The Banks of Doon. Sett. II.
And I hae lost my lightsome heart,
The Ruined Maid's Lament.

Lightsomely.

As lightsomely I glow'd abroad, . . . The Holy Fair. 2.

Like.

Though like as was ever twin brother to brother,
Fragment inscr. to Fox.
Let them do the like, . . . S. Hey ca' thro'.
The like has been that you may wear
A noble head of horns, . . . The Calf.
As whiles they're like to be my dead,
To W. Simpson. 5.
'Bout which our herds sae aft hae been
Maist like to fight, . . . 1b. P. S.

Like, to.

She likes—as Butchers like a Knife! . . . Add. of Beelzebub.

And ay shall follow you," . . . S. As down the burn
As ill I like my fauts to tell; . . . Ep. to J. L.—k, Ap. 1st, 16.
I like the lasses—Gude forgie me! . . . 1b. 17.
I dinna like to see your face,
Nor hear your crack, . . . 1b. 20.

A blessing on the cheery gang
Wha dearly like a jig or sang, . . . Ep. to Maj. Logan. 6.
But still, but still, I like them dearly . . . 1b. 9.
Lads like lasses weel, And lasses lads too.

S. Gudten to you Kimmer

And that's the way I like to do, . . . S. John, come kiss.
That ye can please me at a wink,
Whene'er ye like to try, . . . S. O Tibbie
I dearly like the west, . . . S. Of a' the airts
Wha dearly like a random-splore; On Scot. Bard gne to W. I.
We're your ain bairns, e'en guide us as ye like, Scots Prologue.

But I will send to London town
Whom I like best at home. . . . The Election Ballads. I.

Whase ain deer lass, that he likes best,
Comes clinkin' down beside him! . . . The Holy Fair. 11.
Enough of ought ye like but grace; . . . The Inventory.

An' at our leisure when ye like
We'll whistle owre the lave o't. . . . The Jolly Beggars. S. V.

I like the jads for a' that. . . . 1b. S. VII.

He rises when he likes himself; . . . The Two Dogs. 8.

This chap will dearly like our kin',
S. There was a lad

As them wha like to taste the drappie
There's naethin like

It's no I like to sit an' swallow,
Then like a swine to puke an' wallow, To Mr. J. Kennedy.

An honest man may like a glass,
To Rev. J. M' Math.

While moorland herds like guid, fat braxies; To W. Simpson.

'Or gin ye like to end the bother, . . . What ails ye now

A bonie lass, I like her best, . . . S. Women's Minds.

Liked, -d.

I said he might die when he liked for Jean;
S. Last May a braw wooer
And weel he lik'd to shed their bluid,
And sell their skin. . . . The Two Herds. 6.

Liken.

To liken them to your auld-world squall,
I must needs say, comparisons are odd. The Brigs of Ayr. 10.

Likeness.

His likeness cam' up the house stalking, . . . S. Tam Glen.
Their likeness is not found on earth, in air, or sea.
The Brigs of Ayr. 8.

Liking.

The more incapacity they bring,
The more they're to your liking. . . . The Dean of Fac.

Lilac.

With purple blossoms to the spring; S. O were my love

Lilt [sing].

Al' lilt wi' holy clangor; . . . The Ordination. 3.

Lily.

How fair and how pure is the lily, S. Adown winding Nith
Hast thou found that beauty's lilies
Were not made for aye to last? . . . Blue Bonnets.

Let Bourbon exult in his gay, gilded lilies,
S. How pleasant the banks

Her heaving bosom, lily white, . . . S. I gaed a wae'w' t

For the lily in the bud will be bonier yet.

A lily in a wilderness. . . . S. My Lord a-hunting

The lily's hue, the rose's dye, . . . S. My Mary's face

The springing lilies sweetly press'd,
Wild wanton kiss'd her rival breast;
S. On a bank of flowers

But may ye flourish like a lily, On Scot. Bard gne to W. I.

While peaches, and cherries, and roses and lilies,
They fade and they wither awa, man. Ronalds of Bennals.

Fairest flow'r! behold the lily,
Blooming in the sunny ray; . . . S. Sensibility,

And decks the lily fair in flow'r pride,
The Cotter's Sat. Night. 18.

Her cheeks like lilies dipt in wine,
S. The Lass that made the bed.

The lily it is pure, and the lily it is fair,
And in her lovely bosom I'll place the lily there;

Long life, my Lord, and health be yours, Add. of Beelzebub.

Who long with jiltish arts and airs hast strove;

So long, sweet Poet of the Year,

Shall bloom that wreath thou wilt hast won;

Add. to Shade of Thomson.

Long, long the night, S. Ay waking, O †

Long quiet she reign'd; S. Saledonia.

Repeated, successive, for many long years, ib.

Long since, this world's thorny ways

Had number'd out my weary days, Ep. to Davie. 10.

'Twas four long nights and days to shaving-night,

Extern. on W. Smellie.

M'Pherson's time will not be long

On yonder gallows-tree. S. Farewell, ye dungeons †

So I, for my lost darling's sake,

Lament the live-day long. S. Fate gave the word †

They've taen a weapon, long and sharp,

And cut him by the knee; John Barleycorn. 7.

That long has stood the wind and rain; Lament for Glencairn.

And bless auld Coila, large and long, S. Nature's Law.

The hoary Sire—the mortal stroke,

Long, long be pleas'd to spare; O Thou dread Pow'r †

The forms of ages long gone by

And ushers the long dreary night; On Lincluden.

And ushers the long dreary night; Poet. Add. to Tytler.

Bnt, long ere noon, succeeding clouds

Succeeding hopes beguill'd. Sad thy tale †

And long pursued me with her eye. S. Slow spreads the gloom †

Long may thy hardy sons of rustic toil

Be blest with health, and peace, and sweet content!

The Cotter's Sat. Night. 20.

Squadrons extended long and large,

The Election Ballads. VI.

But long ere night cnt down it lies

All wither'd and decay'd. The 1st 6 V.s. of 10th Ps.

Long did I bear the heavy yoke, S. The Joyful Widower.

And now I have liv'd—I know not how long,

The Jolly Beggars. S. II.

I see the hours, in long array,

That I must suffer, lingering, slow. The Lament. 7.

How long I have liv'd,—but how much liv'd in vain;

S. The lazy mist †

And long with this Whistle all Scotland shall ring,

The Whistle.

Who long with wants and woes has striv'n,

To a Mountain-Daisy.

Mayst thou long, sweet crimson gem,

Richly deck thy native stem; To Miss C.

[Flinry], my other stay, long bless and spare!

Thro' a long life his hopes and wishes crown; To R. G. of F., 9.

Yet long, long too well have I known: S. Where are the joys †

Beck'ning thee to long repose; W. in Friars-Carse H.

In uproar and riot rejoice the night long;

Ye true "Loyal Nat.s" †

Long, to.

The water ruis o'er the heugh,

And I long for my true lover! S. Ay waikin, O.

Longer.

And longer with Politics, not to be cramm'd,
At Meet. of D. Volunteers.
 Nor longer idly rave, Sir; . . . S. Husband, husband †
 In window fair, the painted pane
 No longer glows with holy train. . . . On Lincluden.
 Where suffering no longer can harm thee,
On Death of fav. Child.
 Shall no longer appear in the records of fame;
Reproof by Himself.
 * Nor longer mourn thy fate is hard, The Vision. D. II. 2.
 No longer the warfare, ungodly, would wage;
The Whistle. 15.

Love [v. also Luve, Love].
Where, where is Love's fond, tender throe, A Winter Night, 8.
Is there, beneath Love's noble name,
Can barbour, dark, the selfish aim, . . . 1b.
Mark Maiden-innocence a prey
To love pretending snares, . . . 1b.
Thou other man of care, the wretch in love,
Add. sp. by Fontenelle.
I see the Sire of Love on high,
And own his work indeed divine! Add. to Edinburgh, 4.
An' all the soul of love they shar'd, Add. to the Deil, 15.
When Phœbus peeps over the mountains,
On music, and pleasure, and love. S. Adown winding Nith t
Ah, Chloris, since it may na be,
That thou of love wilt hear; . . . S. Ah, Chloris t
Youth, grace, and love attendant move,
The captive bands may chain the bands,
But powerful love enslaves the man: . . . 1b.
And love was ay the tale. . . . S. As down the burn t
"Love, I like the burn, And ay shall follow you." . . . 1b.
The Queen of love could never move
With motion more enchanting. S. As I gaed up by t
And love said, laughing in her looks,
Come kiss me at your leisure. . . . 1b.
For ob! love forsaken's a tormenting pain.
S. As I was a wand'ring t
My heart-warm love to guid and Glen,
O this love, this love! [re.] . . . S. Ay wakin', O t
Spare, O spare my love! . . . 1b.
Behold, my love, how green the groves, S. Behold, my love t
The courtier's gems may witness love
But 'tis na love like mine. . . . 1b.
Heavy, heavy is the task,
Hopeless love declaring; . . . S. Blythe hae I been t
Supremely blest wi' love and thee S. Bonie lassie, will ye go t
Wit, and Grace, and Love, and Beauty,
In ae constellation shine; . . . Bonie wee thing t

'Yet rich in kindest, truest love, S. Braw lads on Yae braes.
The bands and bliss o' mutual love,
O that's the chiefest warld's treasure! . . . 1b.
I'll kilt my coats aboon my knee,
And follow my love through the water.
S. Braw lads of G. Water.
But secret love will break my heart,
If I conceal it langer. . . . S. Craigie-burn Wood.
In love to lie and languish, . . . 1b.
For oh! my soul is parch'd with love! Delia. An Ode.
But ah! those pleasures, Loves, and Joys,
Which I too keenly taste, . . . Dependency, an Ode.
He needs not, he needs not, Or human love or hate; 1b.
Slighted love is sair to hide, . . . S. Duncan Gray t
Ye woodland choir that channt your idle loves,
El. on Miss Burnet.
In respect for the love and affection be'd show'd her,
She reduc'd him to dust and she drank up the powder.
Epig. on Hebe's Squire.
The sacred love o' weel placed love,
Luxuriantly indulge it; . . . Ep. to Young Friend, 6.
O Thou, whose very self art love! . . . Ep. to Davie, 9.
The smile of love, the friendly tear,
The sympathetic glow! . . . 1b. 10.
Ev'n love an' friendship should give place
To catch-the-plack! Ep. to J. L—k, Ap. 1st, 20.
Whose arms of love would grasp the human race:
Ep. to R. Graham, 5.
By love and by beauty, By law and by duty; S. Eppie Adair.
O did not Love exclaim, "Forbear!" S. Fairest Maid t
No love but thine my heart shall know. . . . 1b.
Farewell loves and friendships, ye dear tender ties!
S. Farewell, thou fair day t
Love's veriest wretch, unseen, unknown,
S. Farewell, thou stream t
Forlorn, my love, no comfort near,
S. Forlorn, my Love t
Far, far from thee, the fate severe
At which I must repine, Love. . . . 1b.
O wert thou, Love, but near me, . . . 1b.
And mingle sighs with mine, Love. . . . 1b.
Save in those arms of thine, Love. . . . 1b.
Till the Fates, nae mair severe,
Friendship, Love, and Peace restore. S. Frae the friends t
But boundless oceans, roaring wide,
Between my Love and me, . . . S. From thee, Eliza t
Thou'rt to love and heaven sae dear, S. Hark! the mavis t
At once 'tis music,—and 'tis love! S. Here is the gien t
O welcome dear to love and me! . . . 1b.
Still my heart is with my love; S. How can my poor heart t
He lo'es sae weel his craps and kye,
He has nae love to spare for me; S. In simmer when t
But the tender heart o' leesome love,
The gowd and siller canna buy: . . . 1b.
Light is the burden love lays on; . . . 1b.
Content and love bring peace and joy, . . . 1b.
Above the world on wings of love I rise,
In vain wild Prudence t
The sparkling heavenly vintage, Love and bliss! Innocence t
My Love and Native Land farewell, . . . S. It was a' for t
But I hae parted frae my Love,
Never to meet again, . . . 1b.
If thou would win my love, Jamie, come try me [re.]
S. Jamie, come try me t
If thou should ask my love, Could I deny thee? . . . 1b.
If thou should kiss me, love, Wha could espy thee? . . . 1b.
Gie me love at any price; . . . S. Jockey fou t
Love alane can gie delight. . . . 1b.
Gie me love in her I court;
Love to love maks a' the sport. . . . 1b.
Let love sparkle in her e'e; . . . 1b.
Common motives lang sinesyne,
Never can engage my love; . . . 1b.
Spare my love ye winds that blaw,
S. Jockey's ta'en the parting t
In love and freedom they rejoice, Lament of Mary of Scots.
No more shall the soft thrill of love warm my breast,
Lament on leaving Nat. Land.
And talk of love my dearie O. S. Lassie wi' the tintwhite t
And sair wi' his love he did deave me;
S. Last May a braw wooer t

And vow'd for my love he was dying;
S. Last May a braw wooer †
 Let not woman e'er complain
 Of inconstancy in love; . . . S. Let not woman †
 Let her crown my love her law, . . . S. Louis what rock I †
 And Man, whose heav'n-erected face,
 The smiles of love adorn, . . . Man was made to Mourn.
 In love's delightful fetters, she chains the willing soul!
S. Mark yonder Pompt †
 And feel thro' every vein love's raptures roll. . . . 1b.
 Loves, graces and virtues, I call not on you;
Monody, on a Lady.
 The diamond-dew in her een sae blue,
 Where laughing love sae wanton swims.
S. My Lord a-hunting †
 My love she's hut a lassie yet, . . . S. My love she's but †
 My love's a winsome wee thing, . . . S. My Love's a winsome †
 Tho' the love that I owe to thee I darena show,
 Yet I love my love in secret, . . . S. My Sandie gie'd †
 Which divides my love and me: S. Musing on the roaring †
 There catch her ilka glance of love [re.]
S. Now bank and brae †
 But love wi' unrelenting beam
 Has scorch'd my fountains dry. S. Now Spring has clad †
 'till Love has o'er me past, And blighted a' my bloom, 1b.
 the flowery snare Of witching love, . . . 1b.
 But love is far a sweeter flow'r
 Amid life's thorny path o' care. S. O bonie was yon rosy †
 O gie my love brose, brose,
 Gie my love hrose and butter; . . . S. O gie my love brose †
 But gie me a braw moonlight,
 And me and my love together. . . . 1b.
 For Love has bound me, hand and foot,
S. O Lassie, art thou †
 A slave to love's unbounded sway, . . . S. O lay thy loof †
 If love for love thou wilt na gie,
 At least be pity to me show; S. O Mary, at thy window †
 O meikle thinks my love o' my beauty,
 And meikle thinks my love o' my kin;
 But little thinks my love I ken brawlie,
S. O meikle thinks my love †
 My laddie's sae meikle in love wi' the siller,
 He canna ha'e love to spare for me, . . . 1b.
 Your proffer o' love's an airle-penny, . . . 1b.
 At least some pity on me shaw,
 If love it mayna be. . . . S. O mirk, mirk †
 Where first I own'd that virgin love
 I lang, lang had denied. . . . 1b.
 But spare and pardon my false Love, . . . 1b.
 O Willy, ay I bless the grove
 Where first I own'd my maiden love, . . . S. O Phely, †
 So in my tender bosom grows,
 The love I bear my Willy, . . . 1b.
 O poorthith cauld, and restless love,
 Ye wreck my peace between ye; . . . S. O poorthith could †
 Or why sae sweet a flower as love,
 Depend on Fortune's shiain? . . . 1b.
 O wha can prudence think upon,
 And sae in love as I am? . . . 1b.
 Oh, nought but love and sorrow join'd,
 Sic notes of woe could waken! S. O stay, sweet warbling †
 Kind love is in her e'e. . . . S. O this is no my ain †
 It wants to me the witching grace,
 The kind love that's in her e'e. . . . 1b.
 And ay it charms my very saul,
 The kind love that's in her e'e. . . . 1b.
 But gleg as light are lovers' een,
 When kind love is in the e'e. . . . 1b.
 But weel the watching lover marks
 The kind love that's in her e'e. . . . 1b.
 this scene of peace and love, . . . O Thou dread Pow'r †
 Thou God of love and truth, . . . 1b.
 Without my love, not a' the charms
 Of Paradise could yield me joy; . . . S. O wat ye wha's in †
 O were my love yon lilac fair, . . . S. O were my love †
 O were my love yon violet sweet, . . . 1b.
 O gin my love were yon red rose, . . . 1b.
 Oh, cold is the blast upon my pale cheek,
 But colder thy love for me, Oh! . . . S. Oh, open the door, †
 False friends, false love, farewell! . . . 1b.
 My true love! she cried,—and sunk down by his side, . . . 1b.
 With love and sleep oppress'd. S. On a bank of flowers †

Sweet floweret, pledge o' meikle love,
On Birth of Posth. Child.
 Peace, enjoyment, love, and pleasure! . . . S. One fond kiss, †
 Thy rural loves are nature's sel; Poem on Pastoral Poetry.
 Nae snap conceits, but that sweet spell
 O' witchin love, . . . 1b.
 Last, tho' not least in love, ye youthful fair,
Prologue, at Th., D.
 Nay more, that very love their cause of ruin!
Remorse. A Frag.
 How true is love to pure desert,
 So love to her, sae far awa: . . . S. Sae far awa.
 Nane other love, nane other dart, I feel, but her's . . . 1b.
 Her's are the willing chains o' love, . . . S. Sae flaxen †

 old time then was young. . . S. Caledonia.
 Her grandsire, old Odin, . . . 16.
 So whip! at the summons, old Satan came flying;
Epig. on Capt. Grose.
 The old cock'd hat, the grey surlout, the same;
Extm. on W. Smellie.
 That, like th' old Hebrew walking switch, eats up its neighbours: . . . Fragment, inser. to Fox.
 Old winter with his frosty beard,
Imprn. on Mrs. —'s Birthday.
 And may his great posterity
 Ne'er fail in old Scotland! . . . John Barclaycorn.
 Never perhaps to greet old Scotland more.
Lns on Back of Bank-Note.
 The greybeard, old wisdom, may boast of his treasures,
Lns on Windows, Gl. Tavv.
 I found that old Solomoa proved it fair,
S. No Churchman am I!
 But the pursy old landlord just waddl'd upstairs, . . . 16.
 And faith I agree with th' old prig to a hair; . . . 16.
 But met his cunning by the old Scots ell; . . . Sketch.
 To you old Bald-pate smooths his wrinkled brow,
Prologue, at Th., D.
 old Maasfield, who writes like the Bible, Reproof by Himself.
 I see the old, bald-pated fellow, . . . Sketch. New-Yr's Day.
 old Scotia's melting airs, . . . The Brigs of Ayr.
 From scenes like these, old Scotia's grandeur springs,
The Cotter's Sat. Night.
 Dire was the hate at old Harlaw, . . . The Dean of Fac.
 Farewell, old Scotia's bleak domains, . . . The Farewell.
 Farewell, old Coila's hills and dales, S. The gloomy night!
 Old Scotia's darling hope, Your little angel hand
The Petition of Br. Water.
 But the godly old Chaplain left him in the lurch;
The Jolly Beggars. S. 11.
 Till I met my old boy in a Cunningham fair: . . . 16.
 What aspects old time in his progress has worn;
S. The lazy mist!
 Ye sons of old Killie, assembled by Willie, . . . S. The sons of old Killie.
 Your thrifty old mother has scarce such another, . . . 16.
 Old Loda, still rueing the arm of Fingal, . . . The Whistle.
 Old poets have sung, and old chronicles tell, . . . 16.
 And trusty Glenriddel, so skilled in old coins;
 And gallant Sir Robert, deep-deer in old wines, . . . 16.
 In the hands of old friendship and kindred so set, . . . 16.
Older.
 You're one year older this importaot day, Prologue, at Th., D.
Olfact'ry.
 No nerves olfact'ry, Mammoa's trusty cur, To R. G. of F., 3.
Olio. Or olio that wad staw a sow, . . . To a Haggis.
Oliphant. But Oliphant aft made her [Common-sense] yell.
The Ordination. 2.
Olive.
 Peace, thy olive wand extend, S. How can my poor heart!
Omen. Like some portentous omen; On dining with Daer.
Omnipotent.
 In other worlds can Mammon fail,
 Omnipotent as he is here? . . . Ode, to Mem. of Mrs. —.

Omnipotence.

Dread Omnipotence, alone,
 Can heal the wound He gave; . . . Sad thy tale,!
 Vain ev'n the omnipotence of Female charms, Scots Prologue.
 In all th' omnipotence of rule and power. To R. G. of F.,
 O, aid me with Thy help, Omnipotence Divine!
Why am I loth!
Omniscient. Beneath th' Omniscient Eye above,
The Farewell. To St. J.'s L.
On. O Kenmure's on nnd awa, Willie!
S. O Kenmure's on and awa!
 Caledonian, on wi' me. . . S. Scots, wha ha'e!
Once. Know thy form was once a treasure. Blue Bonnets.
 Baith their disease, and what will mend it,
 At once he tells't. Death and Dr. Hornbook. 19.
 The pie-bald jacket let me patch once more;

 At once 'tis music,—and 'tis love! . . . S. Here is the glen!
 Now Jove for once be mighty civil,
Imprn. on Mrs. —'s Birth-day.
 And winter once rejoic'd in glory. . . . 16.
 How cold is that bosom which folly once fired,
Monody, on a Lady.
 What once was a butterfly gay in life's beam: . . . 16.
 Once fondly lov'd, and still remember'd dear.
Once fondly lov'd!
 Stuart, a name once respected, . . . Poet. Add. to Tytler.
 I once was for Fortune carest,
 I once could relieve the distress; . . . S. The sun he is sunk!
 And would to Common-sense for once betray'd them.
The Brigs of Ayr.
 I once was a maid tho' I cannot tell when;
The Jolly Beggars, S. 11.
One. True it is, she had one failing,
 Had ae woman ever less? Lns under Pict. of Miss B.
 One fond kiss, and then we sever;
 One farewell, alas, for ever! . . . One fond kiss!
 Sires, mothers, children, in one carnage lie: The Brigs of Ayr.
 Auld Ayr is just one lengthen'd, tumbling sea; . . . 16. 7.
 One cordial in this melacholy Vale,
The Cotter's Sat. Night. 9.
 One and all cry out, amen! . . . The Jolly Beggars. S. VIII.
One-and-twenty.
 We lived full one-and-twenty years
 A man and wife together; . . . S. The Joyful Widower.
One more.
 I'm better pleas'd to make one more,
 Than be the death of twenty. Lns on Windows, Gl. Tavv.
One, two, three.
 Wi' hand on haunch, and upward e'e,
 He croon'd his gamut, one, two, three.

 That lips could speak thy heart could move. S. I do confess
 To Jove his prayer preferred; Improm. on Mrs. —'s Birthday.
 Now hear our pray'r, accept our song, . . . New Psalmody.
 When for this scene of peace and love,
 I make my pray'r sincere. . . . O Thou, dread Pow'r
 That seek, in prayer, the midnight fane. . . . On Lincluden.
 And mutter forth a half-hour prayer. . . . lb.
 And ward o' mony a prayer, . . . On Birth of Posth. Child.
 Still in prayers for K—G—I most heartily join,
 . . . Poet. Add. to Tytler.
 Sincere as a saint's dying prayer. . . . lb.
 In vain assail him with their prayer, . . . Sketch. New-Yr's Day.
 To you a simple Bardie's prayers
 Are humbly sent. The Author's Cry and Prayer.
 Shall be my prayer when far awa'.
 . . . The Farewell. To St. J.'s L.
 Wi' humble prayer to join and share
 This festive Fête Champetre. . . . The Fête Champetre.
 Thou haply throw'st a scornful eye at
 The hermit's prayer . . . The Hermit.
 But, O Maria, hear my prayer, . . . S. The last time I
 A prayer from the muse you well may excuse,
 But if ye wish her grateful pray'r,
 Gie her a Haggis! . . . To a Haggis.
 And with them take the poet's prayer; . . . To a young Lady.
 The prayer still, you share still,
 Of grateful Minstrel Burns. . . . To Gav. Hamilton.
 O! hear my nrident, grateful, selfish prayer! To R. G. of F., 9.
 Oh! hear a wretch's pray'r! . . . To Ruin.
 Their three-mile prayers, an hauf-mile graces,
 . . . To Rev. J. M'Math.
Prayin.
 For prayin I hae little skill o't; . . . A Ded. to G. H., 13.
Preach.
 The minister kiss't the fiddler's wife,
 He could na preach for thinkin' o't. S. My love she's but
 Not for to preach, but tell his simple story:
 . . . Prologue, at Th., D.
 Or R[obinson] again grown weel,
 To preach an' read? . . . Tam Samson's El.
 A text for infamy to preach; . . . To W. Creech.
Preacher.
 My auld school-fellow, Preacher Willie, . . . Auld comrade
 As men, as Christians too, renown'd,
 An' manly preachers. To Rev. J. M'Math.
Preaching.
 But still the preaching cant forbear, Ep. to Young Friend. 9.
 Yet that winna save ye, auld Satan must have ye,
 For preaching that three's ane and twa. The Kirk's Alarm.
Precede.
 The hoary morns precede the sunny days, The Brigs of Ayr. 8.
Precept. The Precepts sage they wrote to many a land:
 . . . The Cotter's Sat. Night. 15.
Precious.
 We part—but by these precious drops,
 That fill thy lovely eyes! . . . S. Farewell, dear mistress
 Mispending all thy precious hours,
 . . . Man was made to Mourn. 4.
 And still his precious self his dear delight: . . . Sketch.
 Wi' favours, secret, sweet, and precious: Tam o' Shanter. 5.
Precipice. Hanging with threat'nin' jut like precipices;
 . . . The Brigs of Ayr. 8.
Pree'd v. Prie'd.
Preen [a pin].
 My memory's no worth a preen; . . . To W. Simpson, P.S.
Prefer.
 A cheerful honest-hearted clown
 I will prefer before you, O. S. My father was a farmer
Preferred.
 To Jove his prayer preferred: Improm., on Mrs. —'s Birthday.
Prefix. Nae heathen name shall I prefix To Miss Ferrier.
Premier.
 What premiers, what? even Monarchs mighty gaigers:
 . . . Lns on Window, K.'s Arms.

Stand forth and tell yon Premier Youth,
 The honest, open, naked truth: . . . The Author's Cry and Prayer. 4.
 There's even, I'm tauld, i' the Court
 A Tumbler ca'd the Premier. The Jolly Beggars. S. III.
 Say rather, gaun as Premiers lead him, The Two Dogs. 22.
Premier, to.
 Nae sage North, now, nor sager Sackville,
 To watch and premier owre the pack vile! Add. of Beelzebub.
Prent [print].
 To try my fate in guild, black prent; . . . To J. S., 7.
Prent, to [to print].
 And, faith, he'll prent it. . . . On Grosé's Peregrinations.
Prentice. truant 'prentices, yet young in sin, Ep. fr. Esopus.
 Her prentice han' she try'd on man,
 An' then she made the lasses, O. S. Green grow the Rashes.
 He's there but a prentice, I trow,
 But I am a fool by profession. The Jolly Beggars. S. III.
Prenticeship.
 My Prenticeship I past where my Leader breath'd his last,
 . . . The Jolly Beggars. S. I.
Prepare. Prepare, Maria, for a horrid tale Ep. fr. Esopus.
 And honour masonic prepare for to throw;
 . . . S. No Churchman am I
Prepar'd.
 Prepar'd power's proudest frown to brave, . . . Poet. Inscript.
 For the future be prepar'd, . . . W'r. in Hermitage at F. C.
Presage. With every kindest, best presage,
 Of future bliss, To a Young Lady.
Presby'try.
 L—d hear my earnest cry an' pray'r,
 Against that presby'try o' Ayr; Holy Willie's Prayer. 13.
Presbyterial.
 Within thy presbyterial bound
 A candid lib'ral band is found Of public teachers,
 . . . To Rev. J. M'Math.
Presence.
 In whose dread Presence, ere an hour,
 Perhaps I must appear! A Prayer in Prosp. of Death.
 Yet in thy presence, lovely Fair,
 To hope may be forgiven; . . . S. Anna, thy charms
 Tell me, fellow-creatures, why
 At my presence thus you fly? . . . On scaring Water-fowl.
 "For, saving your presence, to her ye're a saint!"
 . . . S. There liv'd once a carle
 But in the fair presence of lovely young Jessie,
 Unseen is the lily, unheeded the rose.
 . . . S. True hearted was he
 Kens the pleasure, feels the rapture,
 That thy presence gies to me. . . . S. Turn again, thou
Present. At present we will ask no more, . . . A Grace.
 Nae mair at present can I measure, Ep. to Maj. Logan. 14.
 But the present hour was in my pow'r,
 . . . S. My father was a farmer
 The past returns, the present flies; . . . On Lincluden.
 The present only toucheth thee: . . . To a Mouse.
Present, to.
 Ye did present your smoutie phiz, . . . Add. to the Deil. 17.
 "Nor 'mang the spiritual core present them,
 . . . Lns add. to J. Ranken.
 Then on the tither hand present her,
 A blackguard Smuggler, right behind her,
 . . . The Author's Cry and Prayer.
 Should Hornie, as in ancient days,
 'Mang sons o' G— present him, . . . The Holy Fair. 12.
Presently. Till presently he hears a squeak, Halloween. 19.
 When presently it does appear,
 'Twas but some neebor snoran . . . The Holy Fair. 22.
Preserve.
 But gude preserve us frae the gallows, Adam A—'s Prayer.
 An' she cry'd, L—d preserv' her! . . . Halloween. 22.
 So e'en to preserve the poor body in life,
 . . . S. Last May a braw wooer
 The Lord preserve us frae the devil! . . . Poem on Life.
 Preserve the dignity of Man,
 With soul erect, . . . The Vision. D. II. 22.
Preside. The Sprites that o'ver the Brigs of Ayr preside,
 . . . The Brigs of Ayr. 4.
 But chiefly, in their hearts with Grace divine preside,
 . . . The Cotter's Sat. Night. 18.
 The arch-fiend's dearest, darke st powers,
 In state preside, . . . The Hermit.

Ye powers who preside o'er the wind and the tide,
S. The Sons of old Killie.

Presided.

Presided o'er the Sons of light : The Farewell. To St. J.'s L.

In respect for the love and affection he'd showed her,
Epig. on Henpecked Squire.

Would have eat her dead lord, on a slender pretence,
Not to show her respect, but to save the expence. . . Id.

Want only of wisdom denied her respect,
Monday, on a Lady. Epit.

For prodigal thoughtless bestowing,
His merit has won him respect. The Election Ballads. III.

And served me with due respect;
S. The lass that made the bed.

Respect, to.
But, oh! [ye maggots] respect his lordship's taste,
And spare his golden bindings. . . . The Book Worms.

Rest I canna get For thinking o' my dearie. S. Aywaking, O†

It's no in wealth like Lon'on Bank,
To purchase peace and rest; . . . Ep. to Davie 5.

When heart-corroding care and grief
Deprive my soul of rest, . . . Id. 9.

An honest man here lies at rest, . . . Epit. on a Friend.
O, do thou kindly lay me low
With him I love at rest. . . . S. Fate gave the word,†

Breathing in the breeze that fans her,
Soothe her bosom into rest; . . . S. Highland Mary.

My head and my heart, now quo' she are at rest,
Jenny Mc'Crow†

The mavis mild wi' many a note,
Sings drowsy day to rest; . . . Lament of Mary of Scots.

Disturbs my lassie's midnight rest,
S. Lassie wi' the lintwhite†

Welcome the hour, my aged limbs
Are laid with thee at rest! Man was made to Mourn.

The curtain draws of Nature's rest, . . . S. Now rosy May†
On peace and rest my mind was bent,
S. O ay my wife she dang.

There's mony a lass has broke my rest, S. O lay thy loof†
Thou dard of Heav'n that flashest by,
O wilt thou give me rest! . . . S. O mirk, mirk†

She goes, but not to realms of everlasting rest!
Ode to Mem. of Mrs. —.
 His bosom ill at rest. . . . S. On a bank of flowers †
 Seek, mangled wretch, some place of wonted rest,
 No more of rest, but now thy dying bed!

On seeing wounded Hare.
 My child, thou art gone to the home of thy rest,
On Death of fav. Child.

But I look to the West when I gae to rest,
S. Out over the Forth †

There, low be lies, in lasting rest; [v.A.15] Tam Samson's El.
 And little fishes' caller rest: . . . S. The Contented Cottager.
 Hoping the morn in ease and rest to spend,

The Cotter's Sat. Night.

 For why? that God the good adore

Hath giv'n them peace and rest, . . . The 1st Psalm.
 All creatures retired to rest, . . . S. The sun he is sunk †
 Her cares for a moment at rest: . . . ib.

For in this world Rest or Peace
 I never more shall know! . . . ib.

When a' to rest are gawn, O. . . . S. The Taylor he cam †
 But praise be blest, my mind's at rest, S. The tither morn †

A blink o' rest's a sweet enjoyment, . . . The Two Dogs. 16.
 Ben i' the Spence, right pensively,
 I gae'd to rest. . . . The Vision. D. I. 2.

Their little loves are blest, and their little hearts at rest,
S. The winter it is past †

And love will break the soundest rest. S. There was a lass †
 The night comes to me, but my rest it is gane:

S. There's auld Rob M. †
 Then I maun rin amang the rest . . . Third Ep. to J. Laf.
 Where is thy place of blissful rest? To Mary in Heaven.

But peace attune thy gentle soul to rest, To Miss Graham (Nature is adverse to a cripple's rest); . . . To R. G. of F.

O Dulness! portion of the truly blest!
 Calm sheltered haven of eternal rest! . . . ib. 7.

And give a love-lorn maiden rest! . . . S. To thee, lov'd Nith †
 Yet never met with that surprise

That broke my rest, . . . Vs to J. Ranken.
 I can feel by its throbbings, will soon be at rest,
S. Wae is my heart †

Rest, to. Where unknown, unlamented, my ashes shall rest,
Lament, on leaving Nat. Land.

Seal'd on her silk-saft folds to rest, . . . S. O were my love †
 "The passing moment's all we rest on!"

Rest on—for what? what do we here? Sketch. New-Yr's-Day.
 Heav'n rest his soul, whare'er he be! Tam Samson's El., 14.

Rest, ye wild storms, in the cave of your slumbers,

And bird and beast, in covert, rest,
 And pass the heartless day. . . . Winter.

Here, firm, I rest, they must be best,
 Because they are Thy Will! . . . ib.

Restless. I, listless, yet restless,
 Find every prospect vain, Despondency, an Ode, 2.

I restless lie frae e'en to morn, S. How lang and dreary †
 O poortith cauld, and restless love,

Ye wreck my peace between ye; . . . S. O poortith could †

He rives his father's auld entails; . . . The Two Dogs. 23.

Then auld Guidman, maist like to rive, Bethankit hums. . . . To a Haggis.

Riven.
 Are riven out baith root an' branch, . . . The Two Dogs. 21.

River. Flow gently, sweet River, the theme of my lays;

With linked hands we took the sands,
 Down by yon winding river; . . . S. As I gaed up by t

O rivers, forests, hills, and plains!
 Oft have ye heard my canty strains: El. on Capt. M. H., 11.

That unknown river, Life's dreary bound! . . . ib. 15.

Or drowned in the river Forth? Ken ye ought o' Capt. G. t

Come, let us sweep them off, said they,
 Like an o'erflowing river. . . . New Psalmody.

There wild-woods grow, and rivers row, S. Of a' the airts t

By a river hoarsely roaring . . . S. Raving winds t

Or like the snow falls in the river, . . . Tam o' Shanter. 7.

But I will down yon river rove among the wood sae green,

Here, rivers in the sea were lost; . . . The Vision. D. I. 13.

by the sweet side of the Nith's winding river,
S. True hearted was he t

No more a-winding the course of yon river,
S. Where are the joys t

Still thro' the gap the struggling river toils,
Wr. by Fall of Fyers.

Rivulet. -let.
 Where the mossy riv'let strays, . . . On scaring Water-fowl.

Down from the rivulets, red with dashing rains,
On Death of R. Dundas.

Road. How thou wad prance, an' snore, an' screech,
 An' tak the road! A Guid New-Year t 8.

We took the road ay like a Swallow: . . . ib. 9.

Wha the de'il ever thinks o' the road he has past,
S. Contented wi' little t

O Life! Thou art a galling load,
 Along a rough, a weary road, . . . Dependancy, an Ode.

Though fortune's road be rough an' hilly Ep. to Maj. Logan.

His saul has ta'en some other way,

But O the road was very hard, . . . S. O Maily's meek.

And sic a night he taks the road in,

in fair virtue's heavenly road, The Cotter's Sat. Night. 19.

For roads were clad, frae side to side,
 Wi' monie a weary body, . . . ib. 6.

While Common-Sense has taen the road, . . . ib. 16.

He smell'd their ilka hole and road,
 Baith out and in, . . . The Two Herds. 6.

Poor wights! nae rules nor roads observin'; To J. S., 10.

I see ye upward cast your eyes
 Ye ken the road . . . ib. 28.

Roam.
 Their hapless Race wild-wand'ring roam!
Add. to Edinburgh. 6.

When in distant lands I roam; . . . S. Highl. Mary.

We'll roam through the forest for each idle weed;
Monody, on a Lady.

Tho' by the bye, abroad why will you roam?
Prologue, at Th., D..

Roam'd.
 In vain I've roam'd for pleasure, S. My Love's a winsome t

Roaming. The breezes idly roaming, S. Deluded Swain t

Bonnie Doon, where early roaming,
 First I weav'd the rustic sang, . . . S. Scenes of woe t

Then farewell vacant, careless roamin'; To J. S., 14.

Roar.
 And fac'd grim Danger's loudest roar, Add. to Edinburgh. 7.

Rousing the turbid torrent's roar Add. to Shade of Thomson.

Across the rolling, dashing roar,
 I'll westward turn my wistful eye: S. Behold the hour t

strumpets, relics of the drunken roar, . . . Ep. fr. Esopus.

A boundless ocean's roar; . . . S. From thee, Eliza t

Where the winds howl to the waves' dashing roar;
S. Had I a cave t

As set the world in a roar
 O laughin' at us; Holy Willie's Prayer. 12.

Listening to the doubling roar, S. How can my poor heart t

It's not the roar o' sea or shore,
 Wad make me langer wish to tarry; S. My bonie Mary.

And loud the tempest's roar: . . . S. O mirk, mirk t

Nae mair he'll join the merry roar, On Scot. Bardgine to W. I.

to the whistling blast and waters' roar,
On Death of R. Dundas.

Or haply lies beneath th' Atlantic roar. Once fondly lov'd t

 That's unco easy said ay: . . . A Dream. 2.

'Twas Pibroch, Sang, Strathspey, or Reels,
S. Among the trees †

I'll learn my kin a rattling sang, [re.] . . . S. And O for aye and twenty †

Mirth or sang can please me; . . . S. Blythe ha'e I been †

I listen'd to a lover's sang,
 And thought on youthful pleasures many;
S. By Allan stream †

I gi'e them [sorrow and care] a skelp as they're creeping along
 Wi' a cog o' gude ale, and an auld Scottish sang.
S. Contented wi' little †

Perhaps it may turn out a Sang ;
 Perhaps, turn out a Sermon. Ep. to Young Friend.
 At length we had a hearty yokin,
 At sang about. Ep. to J. L.—k, Ap. 1st, 2.
 There was ae sang, amang the rest,
 Aboon them a' it pleas'd me best, . . . 1b. 3.
 Or rhymes an' sangs he'd made himsel,
 . . . 1b. 6.
 'You wha ken hardly verse frae prose,
 To mak a sang?' . . . 1b. 10.
 Von sang ye'll sen't, wi' cannie care, . . . Ep. to J. R., 5.
 A blessing on the cheery gang
 Wha dearly like a jig o' sang, . . . Ep. to Maj. Logan. 6.
 I tint my whistle and my sang, . . . S. Gat ye met
 Wi' merry sangs, an' friendly cracks, . . . Halloween. 28.
 Hark! the mavis' evening sang
 Sounding Clouden's woods amang; S. Hark! the mavis t
 As he tuned his doleful sang, . . . Lament for Glencairn.
 Has gart me change my sang, . . . S. My heart was ance t
 Scarce ane has tried the shepherd-sang
 But wi' miscarriage? Poem on Pastoral Poetry.
 In thy sweet sang, Barbanid, survives
 Even Sappho's flame. . . . 1b.
 While falling, recalling,
 The amorous thrush concludes his sang; S. Sae flaxen t
 First I weav'd the rustic sang, . . . S. Scenes of woe t
 How this new Play, and that new Sang is comin? Scots Prologue.
 The lav'rock, to the sky
 Ascends wi' sangs o' joy; . . . S. Sleep'st thou t
 The night drave on wi' sangs and clatter; Tam o' Shanter. 5.
 Or sing a sang at least, . . . The Ans. to the Guidwife.
 But still the elements o' sang
 In formless jumble, right an' wrang,
 Wild floated in my brain; . . . 1b.
 She'll teach you, wi' a reckon whittle,
 Another sang. The Author's Cry and Prayer.
 And we hae sangs to sing; . . . S. The Carls of Dysart.
 Fame and high renown, For an auld sang

 They heard the blackbird's sang, man; The Fête Champetre.
 An' thus the Muse suggested
 His sang that night. The Jolly Beggars. R. VII.
 To lowse his pack an' wale a sang, . . . 1b. R. VIII.
 She sang a sang o' liberty, . . . The Tree of Liberty.
 After some dog in Highland sang, . . . The Twa Dogs.
 An' teach the lanely heights an' howes
 My rustic sang, . . . To J. S., 9.
 I shall say nae mair, But quat my sang, . . . 1b. 29.
 The mournfu' sang I here enclose,
 In gratitude I send you; . . . To Miss Ferrier.
 O sweet, to stray an' pensive ponder
 A heart-felt sang! . . . To W. Simpson.

Sang.

He sang wi' joy his former day, . . . A Vision.
 When linnets sang, and lammies play'd. As on the banks t
 The wild-birds sang, the echoes sang, S. Damon and Sylvia.
 He who o' R-k-n sang, lies stiff and dead,

 And wist na o' my fate, S. The Banks of Doon. Sett II.
 And ilka bird sang o' it's love; . . . 1b.
 Nae lav'rock sang on hillcock green, S. The Catrine woods t
 Thro' faded groves Maria sang, . . . 1b.
 Wi' quaffing, and laughing,
 They ranted an' they sang; . . . The Jolly Beggars. R. I.
 The bells they rang, and the carlins sang,
S. The last bravu bridal t
 The mavis sang, while dew-drops hang Around her on the castle wa'. The night was still t
 She sang a sang o' liberty, . . . The Tree of Liberty.
 At last her feet, I sang to see't,
 Gaed foremost o'er the knowe; S. The weary Pund.
 And ay she wrought her maminie's wark,
 And ay she sang sae merrilie; . . . S. There was a lass t
 The birds sang sweet in ilka grove; . . . 1b.
 The birds sang love on ev'ry spray,
To Mary in Heaven.
 In ev'ry glen the mavis sang, . . . S. Twa even—the dewy t
 And ilka bird sang o' its love,
 And fondly sae did I o' mine. S. Ye banks and braes t
 And through the wood ye sang, lassie; S. Ye hae tien wrang.

The billie is gettin his questions,
To say in Saint Stephen's the morn. . . . Id. 111.
I am, altho' I say't myself,
Worth gaun a mile to see. . . . The Petition of Br. Water.
Sma' need has he to say a grace, . . . The Holy Fair. 25.
And ay she wist na what to say:
S. The lass that made the bed.
I've little to say, but only to pray, . . . S. The Sons of old K..
Say rather, gaun as Premiers lead him, . . . The Two Dogs. 22.
She had na will to say him na: . . . S. There was a lass t
But say thou wilt hae me for better for waur,
I canna say hut ye strunt rarely, . . . To a Louise.
Altho' I say't, he's gleg enough, . . . To Gav. Hamilton.
'As lang's the Muses dinna fail
'To say the grace,' . . . To J. S., 24.
Then, Jamie, I shall say nae mair, . . . Id. 29.
Tho' I maun say't, I wad be silly, . . . To W. Simpson.
And winna say owre far for thrice, . . . Vs to J. Ranken.
But fegs, the Session says I maun . . . What ails ye now t
Fain would I say, 'Forgive my foul offence!'
Why am I loth t
Say then, Katie, say ye'll take me, S. Will ye go and marry t
And the Priest shall say, Amen. . . . Id.
Lassie, say thou lo'es me; . . . S. Wilt thou be my dearie t
Or if thou wilt na be my ain,
Say na thou't refuse me: . . . Id.
Say, to be just, and kind, and wise,
There solid self-enjoyment lies; . . . Wr. in Friars-Carse H.
Saying, in.
Were sayin or takin aught amiss: . . . Kind Sir, I've read t
An' sayin aye or no's they bid him: . . . The Two Dogs. 22.
But, as I'm sayin', please step to Dow's
To J. Kennedy.
Say'st.
Again Thou say'st, 'Ye sons of men,
Return ye into naught!' . . . The 1st 6 V.s of 90th Ps.
Scab. While scabs an' botches did him [Job] gall,
Wi' bitter claw, . . . Add. to the Deil. 18.
Highland scab and hunger; Epig. on being neglected at I. Inn.
Scale. Life's proud summits woldst thou scale?
Wr. in Friars-Carse H..
Scan.
Here heart-struck Grief might heavenward stretch her scan,
Wr. in Kenmore Inn..
Scan, to. Then gently scan your brother Man,
Still gentler sister Woman; Add. to Uneo Guid. 7.
Scandal.
What scandal called Maria's jaunty stagger,
The rickel reeling of a crooked swagger? . . . Ep. fr. Esopus.
To mouth 'A Citizen,' a term o' scandal:
The Brigs of Ayr. 10.

Scandal-potion.

They sip the scandal-potion pretty; . The Two Dogs. 33.

Scandinavian.

The wild Scandinavian boar issu'd forth . . . S. Caledonia.

Discount what scant occasion gave, Add. to Unco Guid. 3.

The timmer is scant, when ye're ta'en for a saunt,

The Kirk's Alarm.

Poor tenant-bodies, scant o' cash, . . . The Two Dogs. 13.

(I'm scant o' verse, and scant o' time), . . . To Dr. Blacklock.

Scant [scarcely, scantness].

I'll fear nae scant, I'll bode nae want,

As lang's I get employment. S. Here's to thy health †

If e'er ye want, or meet with scant,

May I ne'er weest my craigie! The Jolly Beggars. S. VI.

Scanty. Nor make our scanty pleasures less,

By pining at our state: . . . Ep. to Davie. 7.

In longitude tho' sorely scanty,

It was her best, and she was vauntie. Tam o' Shanter. 15.

Just much about it wi' your scanty sense; The Brigs of Ayr. 6.

For her too scanty once of room! . . . The Lament.

How little of life's scanty span may remain; S. The lazy mist †

There, in thy scanty mantle clad, . . . To a Mountain-Daisy.

'I'll sit down o'er my scanty meal - - -

'Wi' chearfu' face, . . . To J. S., 24.

Sear [a cliff; a mark; a wound].

And thro' the drift, deep-lairing, sprattle,

Beneath a scar. A Winter Night. 3.

Whyles round a rocky scar it strays; . . . Halloween. 25.

Let other heroes boast their scars, . . . Nature's Law.

And show my cuts and scars wherever I come;

The Jolly Beggars. S. I.

Scar, to [to scare].

And mony a scheme in vain's been laid,

To stop or scar me; . . . Death and Dr. Hornbook. 13.

Scarce. Whase wife's two nieves were scarce weel-bred,

Death and Dr. Hornbook. 26.

I've scarce heard aught describ'd sae weel,

But twa-three draps about the wame

Scarce through the feathers; Ep. to J. R., 12.

On scarce a bellyfu' o' drummock, On Scot. Bard gae to W. I.

Scarce ane has tried the shepherd-sang

But wi' miscarriage? Poem on Pastoral Poetry.

The infant ice scarce bent beneath their feet:

The Brigs of Ayr. 11.

But blate and laithfu', scarce can weel behave;

The Cotter's Sat. Night. 8.

Wi' you I'll scarce gang ony where . . . To J. S., 29.

Scarcely. But still keep something to yourself

Ye scarcely tell to ony. Ep. to Young Friend. 5.

Wha scarcely tent us in their way, . . . Ep. to Davie. 6.

My Muse dow scarcely spread her wing: Ep. to J. R., 6.

The King's most humble servant, I

Can scarcely spare a minute; Extent. to an Intimate.

And scarcely had he Maggie rallied,

Tho' scarcely langer than your leg, . . . The Inventory.

They scarcely left to coor their fuds,

To quench their lowan drouth, The Jolly Beggars. R. VIII.

Scar'd. they scar'd at blows S. The Battle of Sherra-Moor.

Scar'd from its minnie and the clekkin

By hoodie-craw: . . . To W. Creech.

Scarlet. In silks an' scarlets glitter; The Holy Fair. 7.

As when I us'd in scarlet to follow a drum. S. The Jolly Beggars. S. I.

Scathe [v. also Skaith].

then the scathe an' banter We're forced to thole.

Ep. to Maj. Logan. 2.

Scatter.

That scatters blight in early spring? . . . As on the banks †

Such as the slightest breath of air might scatter;

Ep. to R. Graham. 3

The wounded coveys, reeling, scatter wide; The Brigs of Ayr.

Scattered, -d.

From marking wildly-scat't'red flow'rs, Add. to Edinburgh.

"Ye scatter'd birds that faintly sing Lament for Glencairn.

And scatter'd cowslips sweetly spring; S. Now bank and brae †

The scatt'red coveys meet secure, . . . S. The gloomy night †

And wild scatter'd cowslips bedeck the green dale.

S. The small birds rejoice †

The woods, wild-scattered, clothe their ample sides;

Wr. in Kenmore Inn.

Scaud [to scald].

Spirges about the brunstane cootie,

To scaud poor wretches! Add. to the Deil.

To skelp an' scaud poor dogs like me, . . . Id.

Scauldin [scolding].

Or Zipporah, the scauldin jad, . . . The Ordination. 4.

Scaur [a stream in Nithsdale].

Robert, the lord of the Cairn and the Scaur, The Whistle. 4.

Scaur [apt to be scared].

An' faith! thou's neither lag nor lame,

Nor blate nor scaur. Add. to the Deil.

Scawl [scold].

An' lows'd his ill-tongu'd, wicked scawl Add. to the Deil. 18.

Scene.

Dim backward as I cast my view,

What sick'ning Scenes appear! . . . Despondency, an Ode.

From these dire scenes my wretched lines I date,

Ep. fr. Esopus.

The hero of the mimic scene, . . . Id.

It lightens, it brightens,

The tenebrific scene, . . . Ep. to Davie. 10.

this scene of peace and love, . . . O Thou dread Pow'r †

I view the solemn scene around, . . . On Lincluden.

And all the splendid scene's decayed; . . . Id.

When flow'ry May adorns the scene, S. On Cessnock banks †

The pride of all the flowery scene, . . . Id., Sett II.

Sad to your sympathetic scenes I fly;

On Death of R. Dundas.

Can point the brimful grief-worn eyes

To scenes beyond the grave. . . . Sad thy tale, †

Scenes of woe and scenes of pleasure,

Scenes that former thoughts renew; [re.] S. Scenes of woe †

O! for a Shakespeare or an Otway scene, Scots Prologue.

Ah why should I such scenes outlive!

Scenes so abhorrent to my heart! Sent to a Gent. offended.

The lowly train in life's sequester'd scene;

The Cotter's Sat. Night.

From scenes like these, old Scotia's grandeur springs, Id. 19.

Strong Mem'ry on my heart shall write

Those happy scenes when far away!

The Farewell. To St. J.'s L.

The scenes where wretched Fancy roves,

S. The gloomy night †

As lightlessly I glow'd abroad,

To see a scene sae gay, . . . The Holy Fair. 2.

Does the sober bed of Marriage

Witness brighter scenes of love?

The Jolly Beggars. S. VIII.

Oh! scenes in strong remembrance set!

Scenes, never, never to return!

Scenes, if in stupor I forget,

Again I feel, again I burn! . . . The Lament.

How languid the scenes, late so sprightly, appear,

S. The lazy mist †

A scene o' sorrow mixed wi' strife, . . . The Tree of Liberty.

Since life's gay scenes must charm no more, . . . To Chloris.

Twine'd amorous round the raptur'd scene:

To Mary in Heaven.

Still o'er these scenes my mem'ry wakes, . . . Id.

I court, I beg thy friendly aid,

To close this scene of care! . . . To Ruin.

Eden scenes on crystal Jed, . . . To W. Creech.

I thought sair storms wad never Bedew the scene;

V. 5, under Grief.

Why am I loth to leave this earthly scene? Why am I loth †

These northern scenes with weary feet I trace;

Wr. in Kenmore Inn.

Scent.

How sune it [wild-rose] tines its scent and hue

When pu'd and worn a common toy! S. I do confess †

Scent, to.

And, drooping rich the dewy head,

It scents the early morning. . . . S. A Rosebud †

Where the wa' flower scents the dewy air, . . . A Vision.
 ' Beneath the milk-white thorn that scents the ev'ning gale.'
The Cotter's Sat. Night.
Scented. The sweet scented birk shades my Mary and me.

Ye woodbines hanging bonnilie,
 In scented bowers; . . . El. on Capt. M. H., 5.
 The scented breezes round us blow, . . . S. Now rosy May †
 When wretches range, in famish'd swarms
 The scented groves, The Author's Cry and Prayer. P.
 The scented birk and hawthorn white,
 Down by the burn, where scented birks
 Wi' dew are banging clear, my jo, . . . S. When o'er the hill †

Sceptic. Or tore, with noble ardour stung,
 The Sceptic's bays. The Vision. D. II. 6.

Scepter'd. A scepter'd hand, a king's command,
 Is in her darting glances; . . . S. Lovely Davies.
 There, where a scepter'd Pictish shade
 Stalk'd round his ashes lowly laid, [v.A.4] The Vision. D. I.

Sceptre. Their sceptre's sway'd by other hands;
On Window at Stirling.
 But now Yerl Galloway's sceptre's broke,
The Election Ballads. V.

Scheme.
 'And mony a scheme in vain's been laid,
 'To stap or scar me; Death and Dr. Hornbook. 13.
 I dropt my schemes, like idle dreams.
S. My father was a farmer †
 Nae thought, nae view, nae scheme o' livin',
Second Ep. to Davie.

If he some scheme, like tea an' winnocks,
 Wad kindly seek, The Author's Cry and Prayer.
 They fell upon a scheme,
 To send a lad to London town . . . The Election Ballads. I.
 The best laid schemes o' Mice an' Men,
 Gang aft agley, . . . To a Mouse.
 Thou Pow'r Supreme, whose mighty Scheme,
 These woes of mine fulfil; . . . Winter.
 Then let your schemes alone, in the state, [v.c.]
S. Ye Jacobites †

Scho [she]. Quo' scho wha lives will see the proof, [v.c.]
S. There was a lad †

Scholar.
 Shew'd him the gentleman an' scholar; . . . The Two Dogs.

School. I was bred up at nae sic school,
 My shepherd-lad, to play the fool, . . . S. Ca' the Ewes.
 What's a' your jargon o' your Schools,
Ep. to J. L.—k, Ap. 1st, 11.

Ye Manchine bairns, as on ye pass
 To school in bands thegither, . . . Epit. on a Wag.
 Leeze me on Drink! it gies us mair
 Than either School or Colledge; . . . The Holy Fair. 19.
 An' I held awa to the school; The Jolly Beggars. S. III.
 But human-bodies are sic fools,
 For n' their collages an' schools, . . . The Two Dogs. 29.

School-boy. Like school-boys, at th' expected warning,
 To joy and play. . . To J. S., 15.

School-fellow.
 My auld school-fellow, Preacher Willie, . . . Auld comrade, †

Schulin [schooling].
 Gie him the schulin of your weans; . . . On a Schoolmaster.

Science.
 Seeks Science in her coy abode. . . Add. to Edinburgh. 2.
 An' in the depth of science mird, . . . Auld comrade †
 Mankind is a science defies definitions. . . Frag., inscr. to Fox.
 And grateful science beaves the beartfelt sigh.
On Death of Sir J. Blair.

Where every science—every nobler art
 That can inform the mind, or mend the heart,
Prologue, sp. by Woods.

Scoff. Which fools may scoff at; . . . Add. to Illegit. Child.

Scoffingly. Those fathers would spurn their degenerate son,
 That name should be scoffingly slight it.
Poet. Add. to Tytler.

Scolding.
 I married with a scolding wife
 The fourteenth of November; . . . S. The Joyful Widower.

Score [a kind of bread, thinner than a bannock].

In souple scones, the wale o' food! . . . Scotch Drink. 4.
 Hale brecks, a scone, an' whisky gill,
 An' rown o' rhyme to rave at will, . . . 18 † 21.

A lee dyke-side, a sybow-tail,
 And barley-scone shall cheer me. . . To Mr. M'Adam.

Sconner [loathing].
 Or fricassee wad make her spew
 Wi' perfect scunner, . . . To a Haggis.

Sconner, [to] [to loathe].
 And yill an' whisky gie to Cairds,
 Until they scunner. . . To J. S., 22.

Scorch'd.
 But love wi' unrelenting beam
 Has scorch'd my fountains dry. . . S. Now Swains has clad †

Scorching. They wasted, o'er a scorching flame,
 The marrow of his bones; . . . John Barleycorn.

I'd fan it wi' a constant gale,
 Beneath the noontide's scorching ray; . . . S. O were my love † saucy Phoebus' scorching beams, The Petition of Br. Water.
 I'm scorching up so shallow, . . . 1b.

Score.
 Has clad a score i' their last clath,

Or him wha led o'er Scotland a'

The meikle Ursa-Major? . . . The Fête Champetre.

My Donald's arm was wanted then

For Scotland and for me. S. The Highl. Widow's Lament.

The Solemn League and Covenant

Cost Scotland blood—cost Scotland tears;

The League and Covenant.

'Twas in that place o' Scotland's isle,

That bears the name o' auld king Coil, . . . The Two Dogs.

Shew'd he was nane o' Scotland's dogs, . . . 16.

And long with this Whistle all Scotland shall ring.

The Whistle.

"This Whistle's your challenge, to Scotland get o'er, . . . 16.

Auld Scotland wants nae skinking ware

That jaups in luggies; [v.a.7] . . . To a Haggis.

Yarrow an' Tweed, to monie a tune,

Owre Scotland rings, . . . To W. Simpson.

To equal young Jessie, seek Scotland all over;

S. True hearted was he †

Tho' shelter'd in the lowest shed

That ever rose on Scotland's plain!

S. Twas even—the dewy †

Scots (Scottish; the Scottish language).

May Heaven protect my bonie Scots Laddie,

S. O whare did ye get, †

But mete his cunning by the old Scots ell; . . . Sketch.

We think na on the lang Scots miles, . . . Tam o' Shanter.

Whiles crooning o'er some auld Scots sonnet: . . . 16. 9.

That sark she coft for her wee Nannie,

Wi' twa pund Scots, (twas a' her riches), . . . 16. 15.

Her auld Scots heart was true; The Election Ballads. I.

In plain, braid Scots held forth a plain, braid story:

The Brigs of Ayr. 9.

Scottish, Scottish.

"To muse some favourite Scottish theme,

"To sing some favourite Scottish maid. As on the banks †

Wi' a cog o' gude ale, and an auld Scottish sang.

S. Contented wi' little, †

The hopeful youth, in Scottish senate hred, Eph. fr. Esopus.

Yes! there is ane; a Scottish callan!

Poem on Pastoral Poetry.

To paint the lovely hapless Scottish Queen! Scots Prologue.

Ye'll soon hae Poets o' the Scottish nation,
Will gar Fame blaw until her trumpet crack,

Scots Prologue.

Wha sweetly tune the Scottish lyre, The Ans. to the Guidwife.
To you I sing, in simple Scottish lays,

The Cotter's Sat. Night.

Fareweel to a' our Scottish fame, . . . S. The Union.

Fareweel even to the Scottish name, . . . Ib.

I took her for some Scottish Muse
By that same token; . . . The Vision. D. I. 9.

Still, as in Scottish story read, . . . Ib. D. I. 15.

Was brought to the court of our good Scottish King,

The Whistle.

Here, where the Scottish muse immortal lives,

To Miss Graham.

At Wallace' name, what Scottish blood,
But boils up in a spring-tide flood! . . . To W. Simpson.

Among the illustrious Scottish sons

Cross the seas and win his ain. . . . S. Frae the friends †
Who mad'st the sea and shore, . . . Grace after Dinner.
He's on the seas to meet the foe? S. How can my poor heart †
On the seas and far away,
On stormy seas and far away, [re.] . . . . . Id.
And now what seas between us roar, S. How lang and dreary †
I faught at land, I faught at sea, . . . . . S. Killiecrankie.
It's not the roar o' sea or shore,
Wad make me langer wish to tarry; . . . S. My bonie Mary.
Tho' I were doom'd to wander on,
Beyond the sea, beyond the sun, . . . S. O were I on Parnass. †
Our hillie's gien us a' a jink,
An' owre the Sea. [re.] . . . On Scot. Bard gne to W. I.
When Phœbus sinks behind the seas; S. On Cessnock banks †
Auld Aire ran by before me,
And bicker'd to the seas; . . . . . One night as I †
The far foreign land, or the wide rolling sea.
S. Out over the Forth †
But seas between us braid hae ro'd
S. Should auld acquaintance †
The Thames flows proudly to the sea, S. The Banks of Nith †
My heart is wae, and unco wae,
To think upon the raging sea, . . . S. The bonie Lass of Alb.
Auld Ayr is just one lengthen'd, tumbling sea;
The Brigs of Ayr. 7.
Their likeness is not found on earth, in air, or sea. . . . Id. 8.
And I maun cross the raging sea; . . . S. The Highl. Lassie.
They banish'd him beyond the sea, The Jolly Beggars. S. IV.
Be banish'd o'er the sea to France, . . . The Two Herds. 16.
Here, rivers in the sea were lost; . . . The Vision. D. I. 13.
He drank his poor god-ship as deep as the sea,
The Whistle. 4.
Over sea, over shore,
Where the cannons loudly roar; S. There was a bonie Lass †
The frost may freeze the deepest sea, . . . S. To daunt me.
Where Cart rins rowing to the sea, . . . S. Where Cart rins †
Or still the tumult of the raging sea: . . . Why am I loth †

A seat, I'm sure ye're weel deservin'; . . . . . Id.
Edina! Scotia's darling seat! . . . Add. to Edinburgh.
We'll ease our shanks an' tak a seat,
If Happiness has not her seat
And center in the breast, . . . . . Ep. to Davie. 5.
Nor from the seat of scornful Pride
Casts forth his eyes abroad, . . . . . The 1st Psalm.
Here shall the shepherd make his seat,
The Petition of Br. Water.
Second. (Beauty, where faultless symmetry and grace,
Can only charm us in the second place.)
Prologue, sp. by Woods.
And still the second dread command be free,
The Brigs of Ayr. 8.
He, who bore in heaven the second name,
The Cotter's Sat. Night. 15.
Or nobly die, the second glorious part: . . . Id. 21.
Second sight. (The second sight, ye ken, is given To ilka poet) To Terraught.
Second-sighted.
(That Bards are second-sighted is nae joke,

    Ep. to R. Graham. 4.
Trees with aged arms were warring, . . . S. I dream'd I lay!
She'll wander by the aiken tree, . . . S. I'll ay ca' in!
The feather'd people you might see,
Perch'd all around on every tree, S. It was the charming!
"I am a bending aged tree,
"That long has stood the wind and rain;
    Lament for Glencairn.
Now Nature hangs her mantle green
On every blooming tree, . . . Lament of Mary of Scots.

It's a' for the apple he'll nourish the tree;
    S. O meikle thinks my love!
Ye're like to the bark o' yon rotten tree; . . . 1b.
She wanders by yon spreading tree; S. O wae ye wha's in!
And gane, alas! the sheltering tree, On Birth of Posth. Child.
The groaning trees untimely shed their locks,
    On Death of Sir J. Blair.
I see the flowers and spreading trees, S. Sweet fa's the eve!
When yon green leaves fade frae the tree,
Around my grave they'll wither, . . . 1b.
When, glimmering through the groaning trees,
Kirk-Alloway seem'd in a bleeze; . . . Tam o' Shanter. 10.
Wi' lightsome heart I pu'd a rose,
Frae aff its thorny tree; S. The Banks of Doon, Sett. 11.

Mild-chequering through the trees, . . . 1b.
But ere the bud was on the tree, The Jolly Beggars. S. IV.
Alas! sae sweet a tree as love,
Sic bitter fruit should bear! The Ruined Maid's Lament.
Heard ye o' the tree o' France, . . . The Tree of Liberty.
Upo' this tree there grows sic fruit, . . . 1b.
The courtly vermin's banned the tree, . . . 1b.
For Freedom standing by the tree,
Her sons did loudly ca', man; . . . 1b.
That sic a tree cannot be found
"Twixt London and the Tweed, man, . . . 1b.
Without this tree, alake this life
Is but a vale o' woe, man; . . . 1b.
Wi' plenty o' sic trees, I trow,
The world would live in peace, man; . . . 1b.
Synce let us pray, auld England may
Sure plant this far-famed tree, man; . . . 1b.
The Thresher's weary fling-in-tree, . . . The Vision. D. 1. 2.
And the small birds sing on every tree; The Winter it is past!
The trees now naked groaning,
Shall soon wi' leaves be binging, S. The yng Highl. Rover.
Where the trees and the branches will be our safe guard,
    S. There grows a bonie!
On every tree appear my verses . . . To Clarinda.
When winds raw thro' the naked tree; . . . To W. Simpson.
By mony a flow'r and spreading tree, S. Where Cart rins!
The leafless trees my fancy please, . . . Winter.

Ye are sae grave, nae doubt ye're wise ;
In hopes to be mair wise,
Say, to be just, and kind, and wise,
There solid self-enjoyment lies ;

Wisemen.

Nay, what are priests? those seeming godly wisemen ;
In ploughman phrase 'God send you speed,'

Wiser.

Still daily to grow wiser ;
Wiser men than me's beguill'd,
If wiser too—he hinted some suggestion,

Wisest. The wisest Man the warl' saw,

He dearly lov'd the lasses, O. [v. A. 24]
S. Green grove the Rashes.

Wish. But whilst your wishes and endeavours,
Are blest with Fortune's smiles and favours,
Let Fortune's gifts at random flee,
They ne'er shall draw a wish frae me,

Ye little know the ills ye court,
When Manhood is your wish!

Nae mair ungen'rous wish I hae,
Why was an independent wish
E'er planted in my mind?

Tho' to be rich was not my wish,
Yet to be great was charming,

Up to a Parent's wish.
Nor his warm-urged wishes.

Is th' wish o' mony mae than me ;
E'en then a wish (I mind its power)
A wish, that to my latest hour
Shall strongly beave my breast ;

For whom my warmest wish to heaven is sent!
Had I on earth but wishes three,
The first should be my Anna.

Each night and morn with voice imploring,
This wish I sigh :

To grant my highest wishes,
He had no wish but—to be glad,
And not a wish to gild the gloom!

Thro' a long life his hopes and wishes crown ;
What was ye wish for mair, man?

A humble Bardie wishes!
A Guid New-Year I wish you Maggie!

I wish her sale for ber gude ale,
I wish a heckle Were in their doop,

My passion I will ne'er declare,
I'll say, I wish thee well.

An' Auchenhay, I wish him joy ;
But friends na' folk that wish me well,
They sometimes roose me ;

Wha I wish were maggots' meat,
And wha winna wish guid luck to our cause,
May never guid luck be their fa'!

And as wi' thee I'd wish to live,
For thee I'd bear to die.

And aye I wish him back again.
It's not the roar o' sea or shore,
Wad make me langer wish to tarry ;

And I the world nor wish nor scorn,
And here's to them that wish us weel,
I come to wish you all a good new year!

And wish them in hell for it a', man.
Ye Scots wha wish auld Scotland well,
I wish you luck o' the prize man.

But, if ye wish her gratefu' pray'r,
Yet love to friendship shall give way,
I cannot wish it less.

Nae heart could wish for more.

And wish them in hell for it a', man.
Ye Scots wha wish auld Scotland well,
I wish you luck o' the prize man.

But, if ye wish her gratefu' pray'r,
Yet love to friendship shall give way,
I cannot wish it less.

Nae heart could wish for more.

And wish them in hell for it a', man.
Ye Scots wha wish auld Scotland well,
I wish you luck o' the prize man.

But, if ye wish her gratefu' pray'r,
Yet love to friendship shall give way,
I cannot wish it less.

Nae heart could wish for more.

And wish them in hell for it a', man.
Ye Scots wha wish auld Scotland well,
I wish you luck o' the prize man.

But, if ye wish her gratefu' pray'r,
Yet love to friendship shall give way,
I cannot wish it less.

Nae heart could wish for more.

And wish them in hell for it a', man.
Ye Scots wha wish auld Scotland well,
I wish you luck o' the prize man.

But, if ye wish her gratefu' pray'r,
Yet love to friendship shall give way,
I cannot wish it less.

Nae heart could wish for more.

And wish them in hell for it a', man.
Ye Scots wha wish auld Scotland well,
I wish you luck o' the prize man.

But, if ye wish her gratefu' pray'r,
Yet love to friendship shall give way,
I cannot wish it less.

Nae heart could wish for more.

I could wish nae man to get ye,
Save it were my very sel.

Wished, -d, Wisht.
E'en when the wished end's deny'd,

For Eighty-eight he wish'd you [ministers] weel,
plac'd by thee upon the wish'd-for height

And for thy potency vainly wish'd,
It is the wish'd, the trusty hour ;

He gaz'd, he wish'd, he fear'd, he blush'd,
Wish'd unison between the pair,

How have I wish'd for Fortune's charms,
For her dear sake, and her's alone!

De'il tak the war! I late and air
Hae wish'd since Jock departed ;

And wished they'd been at home, man.
And wished that Parnassus a vineyard had been.

Wishfully.
Wishfully I look and languish
In that bonie face of thine ;

Wishin'. Wishin' the ten Egyptian plagues
Wad seize you quick.

Wiss [to wish]. The bonie lasses weel may wiss him,
I'll bless her and wiss her

A Friend above the Lift.
Hae there's my haun', I wiss you weel,

Wist.
The music of thy voice I heard,
Nor wist while it enslav'd me ;

She charm'd my soul, I wist na how ;
But little wist she Maggie's mettle

And wist na o' my fate.
He wist na whare he was gaun,

And ay she wist na what to say ;
And I hae lost my lightsome heart

That little wist a fa'.
And lang ere witless Jeanie wist,
Her heart was tint, her peace was stown!

Yet wist na what her ail might be,
Wistful.

I'll westward turn my wistful eye ;
"Though oft I turn'd the wistful eye,
"Nae ray of fame was to be found :

And pensive gaze with wistful eyes,
Wistfully.

Sae wistfully she gaz'd on me,
Wit.

By cantrap wit,
Is instant made no worth a louse

Wit and Grace, and Love and Beauty,
In ae constellation shine ;

If thou hast wit, and fun, and fire,
And ne'er gude wine did fear,

A wit in folly, and a fool in wit.
Yet ne'er with Wits prophane to range,
Be complaisance extended ;

They [Misfortunes] gie the wit of Age to Youth ;
There's wit there [in losses and crosses], ye'll get there,

Ye'll find nae other where.
Gie me o' wit an' sense a lift,

But your curst wit, when it comes near it,
Rives't aff their back.

Yet tho' his caustick wit was biting, rude,
His heart was warm, benevolent, and good.

Who is proof to thy personal converse and wit,
Is proof to all other temptation.

Thou first of our orators, first of our wits ;
Ye men of wit and wealth, why all this sneering

In this braw age o' wit and lear, well-form'd taste, and sparkling wit

An' strive, wi' a' your Wit an' Lear,
To get remead.

APPENDIX.

APPENDIX.

In each case, the alteration made by the Poet is given immediately after the original line or lines, and the date indicated.

K., . . . .	The Kilmarnock Edition (published, July, 1786).
E. 1787, &c., . .	Edinburgh Edition of 1787, &c.
L. 1787, . . . .	London Edition of 1787.

- 1.—Till tir'd at last wi' mony a farce,
They set them down upon their arse. . . . K.
Until wi' daffin weary grown,
Upon a knowe they sat them down. . . . E. 1794.
The Two Dogs.

- 2.—Till whare ye sit, on craps o' heather,
Ye tine your dam;
Freedom and Whisky gang tegither
Tak' aff your dram! . . . . K.
Till when ye speak, ye aibins blether,
Yet deil mak' matter!
Freedom and Whisky gang tegither,
Tak' aff your whitter. . . . E. 1794.
The Author's Cry and Prayer. P.

- 3.—An' warn him ay at ridin time,
To stay content wi' yowes at hame; . . . . K.
An' warn him—what I winna name—
To stay content wi' yowes at hame; . . . . E. 1794.
The Death of Mailie.

- 4.—Quoted from inserted stanzas which appeared, E. 1787, and were retained in subsequent editions.

- 5.—Does a' his weary kiahg and care beguile . . . . K.
Does a' his weary carking cares beguile . . . . E. 1793.
The Cotter's Sat. Night.

- 6.—Great lies and nonsense baith to vend . . . . E. 1787.
A rousing whid at times to vend . . . . E. 1794.
Death and Dr. Hornbook.

- 7.—Auld Scotland wants nae stinking ware . . . . L. 1787.
In the London Edition of 1787 "stinking" was misprinted
"stinking." "Stinking" also appears in many copies of the 1787 Edinburgh Edition.

- 8.—"But now our joys are fled," was altered by Thomson, to suit the music, into "Tho' now, all Nature's sweets are fled."

- 9.—But why of this epocha make such a fuss,
That gave us the Hanover stem;
If bringing them over was lucky for us,
I'm sure 'twas as lucky for them.

Poet. Add. to Tytler.

- The above, which, with the exception of the first line, had been previously omitted, was printed in Pickering's Edition of 1839.

- 10.—Quoted from additional lines printed in Currie's Second Edition.

- 11.—Quoted from an additional verse printed in Stewart's
Edition of 1802.

- 12.—Quoted from additional lines printed in "Cromek's Re-liques," 1810.

- 13.—An' purge the bitter ga's an' cankers,
O' curst Venetian b-res an' ch-acres. . . . K.
And clear the consequential sorrows,
Love-gifts of Carnival signoras. . . . E. 1787.
The Two Dogs. 23.

- "B-res," is evidently a misprint for "buboes," a venereal disease generally accompanying the "chancres."

- 14.—And such a leg! my Bess, I ween,
Could only peer it; . . . . K.
And such a leg! my honie Jean
Could only peer it; . . . . E. 1787.
The Vision. D. I. 11.

In 1787 Burns had got reconciled to Jean Armour.

- 15.—From verse inserted by the Poet in his E. Editions of 1793 and 1794.

- 16.—At the suggestion of Mr. Tytler, the Poet omitted the following lines when he printed "Tam o' Shanter" in his Editions of 1793 and 1794:—

Three lawyers' tongues, turn'd inside out,
Wi' lies seam'd like a beggar's clout;
Three priests' hearts, rotten, black as muck,
Lay stinking, vile, in every nook. Tam o' Shanter.

- "Tam o' Shanter" was first printed in Captain Grose's
"Antiquities of Scotland."

- 17.—At ev'ry chap. . . . . K.
At ev'ry chaup. . . . . E. 1787.
Scotch Drink. 10.

- 18.—On this hand sits an Elect swatch . . . . K.
On this hand sits a chosen swatch . . . . E. 1787.
The Holy Fair. 10.

- 19.—She was nae get o' runted rams,
Wi' woo' like goats, an' legs like trams;
She was the flower o' Fairlee lambs,
A famous breed;
Now Robin, greetin', chows the hams
O' Mailie dead!

The above verse occurs in original manuscript copies of "Poor Mailie's Elegy" in place of the sixth verse of the poem as printed.

- 20.—Quoted from a variation of the fifth verse.

- 21.—His wee drap pirratch, . . . . . K.
His wee drap parritch, . . . . . E. 1787.
Scotch Drink. 7.

"Pirratch" is evidently a misprint.

- 22.—Wi' tidings o' s-lv-t-n. . . . . K.
Wi' tidings o' d-mn-t-n. . . . . E. 1787.
The Holy Fair. 12.

Dr. Blair suggested 'd-mn-t-n' as being more in accordance with the "Gospel" preached by the type of clergymen satirised.

- 23.—Hence, Dempster's truth-prevailing tongue; . . . . K.
Heoce, Dempster's zeal-inspired tongue; . . . . E. 1787.
The Vision. D. II. 6.

- 24.—The sweetest hours that e'er I spend . . . . E. 1787.
The sweetest hours that e'er I spent; . . . . E. 1793, 1794.
The wisest man the warl' saw . . . . . E. 1787.
The wisest man the warl' e'er saw; . . . . E. 1793, 1794.

- 25.—Wae worth them for't!
While healths ga' round to him wha, tight,
Gies famous sport. . . . . K.
Wae worth the name,
Nae howdie gets a social night
Or plack frae them. . . . . E. 1787.
Scotch Drink. 12.

- 25.—"Lugar," instead of "Stinchar," was suggested to Thomson
by the Poet.

- 27.—Ask why God made the gem so small,
While huge He made the granite?
Because God meant mankind should set
'That higher value on it.

The above version is considered the more correct, and is the one concorded.

- 28.—when pressed with care. . . . . E. 1787.
when harassed with care. . . . . E. 1794.
29.—And Och! that's nae r-g-n-r-t-n! . . . . K.
A Ded. to G. H., 6.

The above line was omitted by the Poet in all his subsequent Editions.

- 30.—"An honest man's the noble work of God:" . . . . K.
The Cotter's Sat. Night. 19.

The Poet misquoted Pope, using "noble" instead of "nobest," a mistake he corrected in his subsequent Editions.

- 31.—A variation of the two last lines of the second verse of the song.

- 32.—The line —
"On blithe Yule night when we were fou," was altered by Thomson to—
"On new-year's night, when we were fou."
S. Duncan Gray †
